GCLP news, notes & events

11 November, 2004

The invitations are out and the tables are filling up quickly for this year's GCLP graduation dinner. Have you considered coming along with some friends or fellow graduates?

The dinner will be held at the Premiere Function Centre in Grey St, Traralgon, on Friday, November 26, with an alternative serve three course meal, and entertainment by the Jarz Bros (formerly the Zarsoff Brothers.)

The 2004 group have enjoyed a stimulating year of learning and fellowship and are looking forward to completing their experience with their graduation night.

The graduation is a great opportunity to catch up with your fellow year members and to network across year groups. The food and music are always fun, too!

Remember, RSVPs close on November 17, so get in early to secure your seat and to make Nicola's task of organising that much easier! Ph Nicola (03) 5135 4304 or email nicolae@igain.vic.edu.au

Networking Opportunities

The 2003 group enjoyed a pre-Christmas get together in Rosedale last night, Wednesday, 10 November.

Meanwhile, the 2004 group have already scheduled some dates for getting together next year, and achieving some work for the good of Gippsland.

News from the GCLP Office

The massive task of processing applications for the 2005 GCLP is underway with selection panels conducting interviews right across Gippsland over the next couple of weeks. The selection process and finding the right balance of geographical spread, industry and community interests is a major undertaking. Although interviews have commenced, it is not too late to apply! Please contact the Program Office for further details.

....Also keeping the team busy is the mammoth task of putting together the 2004 yearbook. Thank you to everyone who updated their bio notes. Presenting the most current information possible helps to maintain the professional image of GCLP.

Items of interest

Congratulations to Diane Wilkinson (1998) who has just taken up the role of Executive Officer with the Gippsland Women's Health Service. Readers may remember that this position was advertised in a past edition of the GippsLeader because the health service recognised GCLP as a valuable experience in its applicants.

The Gippsland Education Leadership Program is calling for applications for its 2005 program. The (GELP) is designed to expose educators to leadership models and leadership styles outside of the education sector. It also focuses on regional issues and the importance of education, to the wider Gippsland community. The GELP has strong links with GCLP with all members of the GELP steering committee also graduates of GCLP. To learn more about the GELP, contact Program Manager, Greg Gebhart (GCLP 2001) on 5127 9200.
